Over the past few months I have had many questions about Dr. Ruth Westheimer. In this mini-bio of the good doctor, I will try to answer all the questions that have hit my desk.

Dr. Ruth was born in Frankfurt, Germany, and escaped the Nazis in 1939 when she made it to Switzerland. However, her parents did tragically die in the Nazi concentration camps. After World War II ended, Dr. Ruth spent six years in Israel and while there, fought in the Haganah, learned how to defend herself with hand grenades, and was hit by shrapnel causing severe leg wounds. After recovering from her injuries, a young Westheimer moved to Paris and studied psychology at the Sorbonne. She then earned a master's degree in sociology from the Graduate Faculty at the New School for Social Research and then a doctorate in the interdisciplinary study of the family from Teachers College at Columbia University in New York City.

Even with her very hectic schedule, Dr. Ruth has a cable television show, a syndicated radio program, a syndicated newspaper column. A busy author, she still maintains her private practice in New York City for 15 hours a week. "This way I don't lose touch with reality. That's how I know what's out there."

In addition, Dr. Ruth is a consultant at New York University-Bellevue Hospital's Department of Geriatrics and Kingsbrook Jewish Medical Center's Department of Rehabilitation.

Personally, Dr. Ruth is married to her husband Fred, a telecommunications engineer for Citibank, and has two children, Joel and Miriam.

And why has Dr. Ruth been such a success? "Naturally, I enjoy being Dr. Ruth. But I know that my 'success' really shows that there is a vast hunger for factual information on sex and relationships.

"Human sexual behavior has to be learned. We are not birds or bees, just programmed for reproduction. We have to learn almost everything we do. Bad teaching, or lack of teaching, works disaster.

"People deserve information on so vital a subject. Not just in textbooks and lectures, but where the young, mature and old can find it easily. Information, advice and encouragement are badly needed, and also reassurance that the individual is not the only one who feels doubts and fears, or who feels pushed in directions that seem wrong, or who wants greater warmth, comfort, company and intimacy with another human being."

Q. When is Helen Hayes' autobiography going to be released? Frankie G., Stroudsburg, Pa.

A. Miss Hayes, the first lady of American theater, has finished her autobiography and it will hit the bookstands in a flourish this April. The book is being published by Harcourt Brace Jovanovich and is said to filled with many fascinating stories, including some on Joan Crawford, Charlie Chaplin and Al Capone.

Q. Whatever happened to Linda Lavin who so wonderfully portrayed "Alice" on television for so many years. Gregg D., Brooklyn, N.Y.

A. Ms. Lavin, also a very big Broadway star, is currently suing her husband, Kip Niven, for divorce. Linda married actor-director Niven in 1982, after she divorced Ron Leibman.

Q. I'm pretty confused about this story on Eddie Murphy and the movie, "Coming to America." Did he or didn't he write it, and if he didn't, does the man who claimed to have written it get all the profits? Also, the newspaper said it's possible the movie won't show any profits. How can that be? Please explain. Paul, Chicago, Ill.

A. According to a court ruling, writer and columnist Art Buchwald, and his collaborator, were upheld in their claim that the movie was made based on a pitch they made to Paramount several years ago. As a result, Buchwald and his partner will get a percentage of the net profits.

It's the word "net" that can spell trouble; it means any profit left over after all expenses are paid, and when you consider Eddie Murphy would pay 40% for a Big Mac breakfast for himself and his friends, for example, while making the movie, you get an idea of how easy it is to run up expenses. (Eddie took his cut up front.) So it's possible that Buchwald might get nothing in terms of money (or he might get a great deal depending on how the accounting is done). But what he wanted most of all, he did get — recognition of his claim.

Q. I read that Kelly LeBrock ("Weird Science" and "Hard to Kill") is having a baby. Is it her first? And was her husband, Steve Seagal ("Hard to Kill"), once a CIA agent? Clare, Blackstown, N.J.

A. Kelly is pregnant with her second child. Seagal has never claimed he was, but he never quite denied reports that he had been involved in doing freelance work for "the company."

Q. Was Dinah Shore ever married to Robert Montgomery? And if she was, would that make her Elizabeth Montgomery's mother or stepmother? Please answer quickly since I have a bet on this with my mother. Lee, Long Island, N.Y.

Dinah Shore's first husband, and the father of her two children, Melissa and Jody, was actor George Montgomery. Elizabeth Montgomery's mother was also named Elizabeth.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by Charles King Cooper

WEEKLY TIP: Undercurrents affect close relationships.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A close tie seems stubborn. Meetings with friends are mentally stimulating. Behind-the-scenes efforts work to your advantage. Private talks prove fruitful. Don't reveal the confidences of others. Catch up on hobbies. Save time for pet hobbies.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It's a busy time socially. Participate in community affairs. Listen to the ideas of a friend about a business proposal. Career interests are highlighted. You'll receive valuable advice now. Pacify the feelings of a family member who feels neglected.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Make vacation plans now. Share your ideas with close ties. Children are a source of inspiration. Enjoy cultural activities fully. Partners are willing to go along with your ideas about financial matters. Your hunch about a domestic matter is accurate.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) The emphasis is on close relationships. Attending a movie together should be fun. You'll find that overdoing things could be tiring. Helping children with their interests should be rewarding. Work on creative projects is also indicated. Your intuition is keen now.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Hobbies and sports should be included on your agenda. Physical exercise will do you good. Invite others over for good times. Visits or talks with relatives should be part of your day. Family outings are favored. The evening hours find you in a private mood.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Shopping trips are favored. Make important phone calls. Keep in touch with friends. Evening hours favor a pleasant accent on social life. Buy yourself a nice gift, but avoid arguments with close ties about expenditures. Your new career ideas are worth acting upon.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) News from a distance should please you, but it's not a time to expect cooperation from close ties. Let others be independent. You'll have mixed feelings about catching up with unfinished tasks. Someone's health may be a concern. Seek personal contentment.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) There are many options from which to choose. Don't keep others waiting while you dilly-dally making up your mind about social plans. A up your mind about social plans. A new work plan is worthwhile, but wait until another time to put it in motion. Family concerns may take priority now.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Be willing to go to someplace new if dining out! Avoid someplace new if dining out! Avoid staying in a rut. Others are hard to convince now. Don't argue. Domestic affairs are favored. Watch arguments about joint finances. A close tie's extravagance may be a matter of concern.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Unbend a bit, if you want the cooperation of close ties. Don't bring up old issues. Travel and sightseeing are favored. You may not accomplish as much work as you'd like. Don't get discouraged if progress is slight, for your plan is a good one.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You're in the mood for a good time, but some friends are reticent to go along. Pay no heed to someone's kill-joy attitude. Work problems preoccupy you and may interfere with your full participation in family affairs. The evening brings a turn for the better.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Unexpected news delights you, but you may face some misunderstandings with others. Avoid ideological disputes. Don't force issues. You'll have a chance to improve your income, but it's difficult to reach agreements with close ties regarding joint interests.

DEAR DIANE

by Diane Van Arsdale

DEAR DIANE:

I have a problem that I've always been able to deal with in the past, but lately it's been getting on my nerves. I'm not seeing anyone steadily, but it never fails that when I meet someone I like, I either find him straying from me to one of my friends, or my friends find me more than friendly conversation with him. It has been this way for the last few many years. I simply never really let it bother me, but lately every time I turn around, it happens. I'm wondering what I can do about this recurring situation. I think I'm always good to my friends, and pay full attention to them when I'm with them on a date, but it never fails that my dates make clever comments on how attractive one of my friends are, (mind you, I'm not chopped liver either), or a friend of mine states I should hold on to this one, and if I don't want him, they'll take him, which usually happens anyway, so it's not that my friends are disrespectful, but it's almost as if they don't believe that I'm for real. I wonder if I should start a dating service instead, since I always seem to match these people anyway. I'm pick up on who's going to be with whom and am rarely ever wrong. Can you give me any suggestions?

— FED UP

DEAR FED UP:

In all my years at this, I don't believe I've ever come across anything quite so puzzling as your situation. Frankly, what pisses me off is how willingly you accept such shabby treatment from your so-called friends and from your dates. At this point, I suspect you're subconsciously setting up those situations so that they are acted out exactly as you expect — a friend or yours winds up with a date of yours. Perhaps you don't feel you really deserve a relationship, so you choose certainly fail. It could also be that you don't feel you could possibly measure up to your friends, so you allow them to steal your thunder. A third thought is that you are actually afraid to establish a healthy, loving, giving relationship, so you end up setting up roadblocks and giving yourself excuses.

Whatever the reason, I believe you could benefit from some professional counseling. You are being cheated out of a beautiful part of life, and it needn't be so. With a little soul-searching and some help, you should soon find yourself developing good, healthy relationships with men and with women friends.

DEAR DEX

by Dexter Dyer

DEAR DEX:

To make a long story short, I'll start with this: Friend of mine, you see, they convicted him of murdering this 13-year-old girl. I myself know him in six years. He's been in jail for two years, going on three. They've got him 26 years.

Dex, I've read your articles. You really give good advice. I wrote him a letter when he was in a small county we live in. Anyway, I haven't seem him in six years, it seems as if he left me just yesterday. I had been his girlfriend for a few months before all this happened. He never tried anything strange. We've been writing to each other for almost a year now. He proposed to me over the phone. I said yes, even though we haven't seen each other for six years. Anyway, I'm a I have three children; I'm 22 years old. Even though I have three children, I'm still pretty to me. He asked me if I minded that people will say I married to a murderer. I said no, if he doesn't mind people saying that I'm the father of my children. Dex, all I'm asking from you is, is he worth all these years of us CONFUSED, BUT IN LOVE

DEAR CONFUSED:

Considering this man has been sentenced to jail for the murder of a 13-year-old child, I would strongly suggest you put him from your mind as soon as possible, and get on with your life. The judge and the jury found this man guilty, and you want to marry a man such as this, with your three children around? He could murder you, or for that matter your children. I suggest you take a good look at this man, and if you find you still want to marry him, I highly recommend that you see a therapist. There are many men out there, if you just give them the chance. Regarding your children, there are men out there who wouldn't mind being a stepfather, providing they love you and the kids. Don't give up on hope, and take time to think about what's best for you and your children's future. Good luck!

THE CHOPPING BLOCK

by Philomena Corradeno

Heat oven to 350F. Drain peaches; reserve juice for another use; cut peaches and walnuts. Spread in bottom of shallow, greased two-quart casserole. Place eggs, milk, flours, brown sugar and vanilla in blender; cover; blend until smooth. Pour over peach mixture. Bake 45 minutes or until top is eight servings.

You'd expect this divine cake to come from Limoges. As contrast, it was developed by Master Chef Carmen Jones for the International Olive Oil Council. The Mini Cream is my version of her Sauce Menthe.

GATEAU AU CHOCOLAT — CREAM MENTHE (Chocolate Cake — Mint Cream)

1 cup cocoa
2 cups hot water
2 cups all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons baking soda
½ teaspoon baking powder
2½ cups sugar
1 cup olive oil
4 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
Mint Cream

Mix together cocoa and hot water; set aside.

In mixer bowl, combine flour, salt, baking soda, baking powder and sugar. Pour into well-greased tube or bundt pan. Bake in preheated 350F oven 50 minutes or until tested done. Cool five minutes in pan; turn out onto serving dish. Cool thoroughly. Slice and serve with Mint Cream (recipe follows).

Mint Cream: With chilled beater, whip ½ pint very cold heavy cream in a chilled bowl till slightly thick. Beat in one tablespoon confectioners sugar. Add one to two teaspoons green creme de menthe. Beat only till cream holds its shape.

Tuning In

by Seli Groves

The ABC press release says "their names are synonymous with action, comedy, and romance." They are Warren Beatty, Chevy Chase, and Arnold Schwarzenegger — and I'll leave it to you to decide which description fits which actor. (After all, who's seen more action than Beatty?) The three will be interviewed on "The Barbara Walters Special" on ABC, come Academy Award night, Monday March 26 (8-9 p.m., ET and after the Academy Awards on the West Coast).

Meanwhile, stories continue to come out about Beatty and his "Dick Tracy" costar, Madonna. Last time, we told you there were rumors they'd team for a video. The most recent tale being whipped about them is that Madonna is very close to doing what no other woman has ever been able to do for Warren, namely: get him to cash in his bachelor chips for the first time. We'll see.

Before leaving this item, did you know the woman who costarred with Arnold in "Terminator" was Linda Hamilton, late of "Beauty & the Beast," and that Schwarzenegger was one of the actors considered for the role of Vincent (which was played superbly by Ron Perlman, of course)?

A few years ago, everyone wanted to do Dallas Cowgirls shows about the gorgeous cheerleaders for the Dallas Cowboys football team. Now the movies are being made on the Laker Girls who cheer for the Los Angeles Lakers basketball team. Expect to see several TV flicks about these ladies, starting with CBS' upcoming movie, "Laker Girls," starring Tina Yothers ("Family Ties") as one of three young women whose life dream is to rah rah for L.A.

RICK NELSON REMEMBERED: "It's All Right Now" is the name of the 60-minute special on the late Rick Nelson airing on TNN (The Nashville Network) March 10 (repeating March 15). Nelson, whose daughter Tracey stars on "The Father Dowling Mysteries" (ABC), once told me that although he made his early reputation as an actor, music was his great love and he hoped to be able to devote his life to it. He died in a plane crash on January 21, 1985 during a concert tour at age 45.

DIAL TONES: Millie Perkins, who stars as Gladys Presley in ABC's hit new series, "Elvis," once costarred in a number of westerns written by Jack Nicholson

THOUGHTFUL IDEA — We were recently invited to a wedding and while at the reception, saw a gift and card for the happy couple. I came up with the following idea.

I also purchased a first-anniversary card. When I got home, I addressed it and wrote the date it should be mailed on the envelope where the stamp will be placed.

I am going to start doing this each time I am invited to a wedding. The couple will appreciate. I'm sure. Janie K., Warren, Ohio

Paint & Household

by Bob D'Angelo

Q. In April of 1989, I purchased one case of exterior white latex paint. Due to illness, I left the paint unopened in my garage. My question is, due to the recent freeze and temperatures, will I still be able to use the paint in the spring? P.M., Middletown, N.J.

A. Unfortunately, no. Freezing is one of two methods in which paint will spoil. Even after the paint thaws, it is still unusable. Fortunately, it is so unusable that you will notice as soon as you open the can. Frozen latex paint looks like rubber cottage cheese. How do I know? I've had more than my share of frozen paint.

The other way that paint goes bad is when the lid isn't properly replaced. Often, paint accumulates around the rim of the can, and when you attempt to put the lid back on, it doesn't seal properly. Here's the key: Punch several holes using a nail in the rim of the can. This allows for the paint to flow back into the can. Then, place a rag over the lid and tap it securely into the can. The rag prevents paint from splashing.

Q. I have a rather expensive wooden garage door, about 10 years old, with lots of grained detail work on it. I'm sure it has never been sanded, but two-thirds of the door was painted with a dark stain when it was new, leaving the bottom third unpainted. This bottom portion has developed a green stain presumably from the weather.

Is there any way I can correct this neglect, and put a reasonably attractive finish to this door? Since I am not very knowledgeable in this type of endeavor, I hope you can help. P.W., Commack, N.Y.

A. The first rule of staining: Never have your husband, or any other sports fan, start a staining job just prior to any sporting event. As soon as the ball for round one sounds, down goes the paint brush and the feet go on the couch. The problem is, when you return to the stain in the middle of a job, it will have already dried and the new stain will cause lap marks. This will give the appearance of a bar graph. If for any other reason you must stop staining, make sure it's a corner or the end of a side.

The green that has appeared on the bottom third is mildew. Mildew is my favorite paint topic, as my primary business is powerwashing which is the most effective and affordable way to remove mildew. After powerwashing the door free of the mildew, restain with the same color stain. Start with the unstained part, so you can give it at least two coats to achieve overall tonality. Do it early Saturday morning during the cartoons.

Coupon Corner

by Rose Lynn

Dear C.D. in Spokane, Wash.: You asked about what the term, "double coupons," means. Double coupons are sometimes offered by stores in certain areas. What happens is, you bring in a regular manufacturer's coupon. When you purchase the product, the store deducts the coupon value twice. In other words, you've assume you buy a bag of dog food that costs $5.00. You have a coupon valued at 50 cents. When you check out, you give the cashier the coupon. He rings up the sale of $5.00, then deducts 50 cents for the coupon and another 50 cents to double the coupon. Your bill is now $4.00.

Dear F.R. in Baltimore, Md.: Regarding your missing Snoopy Insulated Beach Bag refund, you mentioned that the offer was sponsored by Fab, Dynamo II and Action. Why not try calling the companies' toll-free number? The number is 1-800-221-4607. They should be able to help you. Be sure to add this number to your list of toll-free numbers for future reference.

Dear A.L. in Gaspter, N.Y.: I'm sorry I don't have the address from the Chex cereal box you requested. You can, however, try to obtain the information directly from Chex by calling their toll-free number. The number is 1-800-746-6116.

If you have any specific questions on couponing or refunding, you can send them to Rose Lynn, P.O. Box 202, Bedrock, N.Y. 10126. Please mention the name of the paper in which this column appears. If you want a personal response, you must include a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Here are this week's offers, and both are for the same product. They require the same POP's, but the one that requires four is of lower value unless you live in an area that doubles coupons.

Don't throw away those cute room deodorizers shaped like mushrooms when they are no longer effective.

Put a few drops of a liquid deodorizer or your favorite perfume on top and they will still smell nice. This way they can be used over and over. Betty M., West Palm Beach, Fla.
